

Success in National level entrance examinations like IITJEE, AIEEE and BITSAT demand sustained hard work with sharp focus from students for two long years. Apart from students effort training centre resources and efficient training methodologies play vital role.

To render proper educational services to students, any training centre needs to practice a qualitative admission process which gives optimum number of admissions per campus/centre to have small learning groups in each class for stress-free learning.

Small learning groups enable students to use resources effectively and instructors can address the academic needs of the students at individual level.

It is observed that most of the colleges have too many students (usually up to 100) in each of their classrooms & usually presence of many students act as a deterrent to any student willing to question the teacher & this impairs healthy interaction between the teacher & the student.

PAGE COMPACT LEARNING CENTRES will have limited students in each class to facilitate high level of interaction between the teacher & the student. Many a times teachers have to trigger the thinking process in a student that empower in developing the logical comprehension and analytical ability - an integral part of the learning process.
